

The Potentialist I: Your Future in the New Reality of the Next Thirty Years

Many of the top colleges and universities in the U.S. give preference to applicants whose family members are alumni in a process known as legacy admissions. NBC News's Stephanie Gosk takes a closer look at the lack of transparency from the schools and growing questions about the system.

Reference

Hacking Planet Earth: Technologies That Can Counteract Climate Change and Create a Better Future

The Prize: The Epic Quest for Oil, Money & Power